

Doctoral candidate Klaudija Hašaj

was born in Kranj, Slovenia. She successfully accomplished her high school Diploma and completed Master degree European Studies –Management of EU Projects in 2012 at the University of Applied Sciences Burgenland (Austria) and set forth her education in 2014 with doctoral studies within the first cooperative International Joint Cross-Border PhD Programme in International Economic Relations and Management, established by the Consortium with the University of Applied Sciences Burgenland (Austria), the Juraj Dobrila University of Pula, University of Economics in Bratislava and University of Sopron as founding members. While being a doctoral candidate, she worked on several EU projects, especially on the projects about the European Union and the nationalistic populism and its reception in Central Europe as a member of Austrian Institute for the EU and did her research work in the field of the European Union and Euroscepticism. She took part at numerous international scientific conferences, published several articles dealing with Individualism and Collectivism in Europe and held lectures on the EU enlargements and other relevant EU issues at universities in Austria and abroad.

Public defence of her doctoral dissertation thesis with the title

Euroscepticism and its Nexus to the Educational Attainment ED 58 within the European Union will be held at the premises of the Juraj Dobrila University of Pula in Pula, Croatia on Wednesday, April 17, 2019 at 4.p.m.